The Favorite Resort for South Carolinians.-The Present Condition and Future Outlook of the Place, &c., &c. [Editorial Correspondence.] HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., July 29, 1887 .-Until the completion of the Asheville and Spartanburg railroad to Asheville this "gem of mountain towns," as it has been aptly called, was little known to North Carolinians. In truth little is known of it now, and in many respects it is a South Carolina town. The people here take South Carolina newspapers, they sell their produce to South Carolinians, they buy most of their goods in South Carolina cities, and South Carolinians flock here to spend the Summer. The constant intercourse, both business and social, with residents of the Palmetto State for almost or quite a century has had the result of making Hendersonville in such sympathy and contact with the descendents of the immortal Calhoun and his co-patriots in the great Nullifica-tion State, that they seem to have either lost, or never had, the deep and lasting
